

Aaron and Zaire Jackson have been married for 5 years and counting. We dated for 8 years prior to getting married. After a very short, 5 day engagement, we got married on our dating anniversary, April 25th. We have 3 children, ages 16, 4 and 2. We are due to have our 4th on March 8, 2025.

Trust and communication are the focus for our marriage. It's what gets us through. We do our best to communicate effectively on every part of our marriage: be it work, finances, rearing the kids, etc.

We are always open to the other's ideas. While we may not always agree with one another, we do compromise until the other is comfortable. Trust!!! We trust each other with our lives. That's it. That's all.

The equally yolked mantra did not make sense until we understood it from our own eyes and experiences. We value the same things. We come from the same type of family dynamic so we can understand each other on another level when it comes to home-life. We've also come to realize that we're not the 21 year olds that met 13 years ago. We have both evolved so much. We have both grown immensely. But we did it together. We did not drift during those growing periods. We have seen each other at our absolute worst and still chose to love the other through it. We stuck together and learned that new person in that particular season!

We know that God is the center of our marriage and we thank Him for it all. Our kids, our finances, our careers are owed to him. Aaron owns a landscaping company and has for 5 years. Zaire recently celebrated 13 years at her job. She works for a major insurance company.

We strive to let any and everyone, wanting marriage, know that it is so beautiful. It's NOT what social media makes it. Marriage is NOT hurt. It is NOT distrust. It is an amazing adventure that people should enjoy and crave.
